

Many are surprised that bullet resistant garments offer only minimal protection against stab threats. In the corrections environment in particular, stab threats are more prevalent than ballistic threats and protective garments must be specifically tested against them. Biokinetics not only produces the laboratory equipment to perform stab testing, but we also offer stab testing to the National Institute of Justice (NIJ) 0115.00 standard. We can also run modified tests for unique situations as defined by the client.